ADDRESS BY

GEN. WM. McCANDLESS.

Delivered at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps Association, in the city of Harrisburg, May 30, 1867.

COMRADES: Truly, and with great satisfaction can I say to you that "now are our bruised arms hung up for monuments:" our stern alarms changed to merry meetings, our dreadful marches to delightful measures; grim visaged war has smoothed his wrinkled front. Witnessing this scene, the proudest tribute to your organization is paid in the flashes of the bright eyes of ladies present in this assemblage, seated among the hardy veterans who have met destruction face to face in all its ways, proud of the companionship, and exemplifying the line that "none but the brave deserve the fair."

I propose to-day to examine hastily, a few of the decisive battles of the world with a view of noticing these EFFECTS upon the nations engaged, in order that, as history repeats itself in its various cycles, we in our march to empire and to greatness, may profit by their example and avoid their errors. It is instructive to notice at the outset that from the organization of society into national communities up to the present time, the peoples of all forms of government have been warring with each other for the purpose of political aggrandizement under every conceivable pretext, occurring either between Republicanism and Monarchy, or kingcraft and kingcraft, or civilization and barbarism, or race and race, or that which has been the bane, in all ages, of government assimilating to our own—civil war.

Of all the various and almost numberless battles, sieges and combats of every description, where blood has flowed like water, writers versed in military historic lore declare that from Marathon to Waterloo, there are scarce a score that have been decisive of the fate of nations; either overthrowing governments or establishing dynasties; yet each has had a direct effect on nations, or political results have flowed from them that in time produced consequences which controlled their history.—Marathon! How the name revives the memories of our schoolboy days, when we read, gloried in and panted to emulate the deeds of Greek valor performed on that field against the veteran and hitherto invincible masses of the great Persian monarch. From her geographical position as well as from her form of government, Greece was at that time the natural vanguard of European civilization against the ambition of Darius. This, then, (even at such an early day) was the battle-field of a free people against the encroachments of monarchical power, a power which, with the exception of the Chinese Empire, ruled the entire continent of Asia.—The Greeks, fighting on their own soil, not only for their institutions but for their political existence as a nation, achieved a success beyond their most sanguine expectations. It is not to be considered at this time how far the innate love of liberty in the Greeks aided in this combat. But we venture to say that the mass of the army struck for their country, their altars and their homes, and as liberty gives to each of its sons that individuality which evolves the responsibility of action, this host, under such influences, became all powerful. Comrades, need I say to you that in the dark moments of the late struggle, how often this feeling in your hearts nerved you, whether in the cold wet bivouac, or the deadly strife? Thus it is that from Marathon till now, the liberty we adore, is the stimulus of its defence, and from it spring free government and true patriotism.

But now the assailed became the assailants. With pure lust for dominion the Greeks fitted out a powerful expedition against Syracuse, in Sicily. This city at that day, was the Gibraltar of the Mediterranean, and had been attacked periodically by all the great powers that figured on the continents of Europe, Asia and Africa. In this ambitious and oppressive movement, after terrific conflicts, Greece was defeated. Had it been otherwise, historians agree that Greek, not Latin, would have been the governing race in Northern Africa and Southern Europe. Mark again the aggressions of this now rich and powerful commonwealth. Foiled in her attempt for empire in the west, she achieved it in the east, where under the might and genius of the pupil of Aristotle, the great Alexander, she conquered Asia Minor, Tyre, Egypt, Media, Syria and Persia, and pushed her victorious arms beyond the Indus. At the great battle of Arbella, Oriental despotism was overthrown by Greek power and European civilization established, which continued to exist throughout those vast domains for over one thousand years. The Persian empire, which had menaced the nations of the earth with subjection, was no more. Instructive and useful lessons are taught from this action of Greece, which, like other Republics in their day, have given freely of their blood and treasure to maintain the national independence; but when ambitious, they have conquered their less powerful neighbors with as little scruple as the most absolute monarch. Can we pass over this brief sketch without calling to mind the consequences which armies have produced? The effects on nations and peoples of this frenzy for political power though not immediately seen, bear fruit in due season. The harvest was yet to come in the epochs to which we have referred. Here we see a powerful empire destroyed, and effects, wonderful in themselvs, growing out of military achievements; time which "at last sets all things even," has proven these successes to be ephemeral, and lacking that solid foundation and sound policy which the victories of peace alone produce.

We now, briefly as possible, propose to speak of the Punic wars, the most memorable of all the contests among the ancients; waged by the rival commonwealths of Rome and Carthage, not for dominion, but to decide whether the Indo Germanic or the Semitic family of nations should govern the world. These races appear to have been natural enemies and have battled with each other time out of mind, in Asia, along the Mediterranean and only concluded in the contests between the Crusaders and the Saracens in the Holy Land. This strife was long and deadly; it was handed down from sire to son, from Hamilcar to Hannibal, that great pioneer of military movements across the Alps, who kept Rome in continual dread for seventeen years. Notwithstanding his genius, the words of Cato, "delenda est Carthago," were carried out to the letter. Carthage was destroyed. The French historian Michelet says, "Rome annihilated it—an entire civilization perished at one blow—vanished like a falling star. The Periplus of Hanno, a few coins, a score of lines in Plautus, and, lo! behold all that remains of the Carthagenian world!" This question of race, comrades, has always been an interesting one. At its mention you involuntarily pause and consider. You cannot ignore it; it belongs to history, it sinks into the very marrow of philosophy. Among all people the purity of the race is primary to the greatness of the nation. We will not stop to trace this now, but only remind you that, the races which conquered then, and have governed since, belong to the white type. But let us pass on. Rome is now the quarry for attack, and Attila (the scourge of God) swept down upon her in the fifth century of our era, with his hordes of Asiatic barbarians for the purpose of founding a new anti-Christian dynasty, on the ruins of the temporal power of Imperial Rome. Chalons was fought, and Rome was triumphant for the last time.

The Teutonic tribes on the north, and Arabs on the south, began to snatch from her now feeble grasp whole provinces, until these spoilers stood face to face at Tours. That admirable historian, Gibbon, says: "If the Saracen power had not then been checked, the interpretation of the Koran would now be taught in the schools of Oxford, and her pulpits might demonstrate to a circumcised people the sanctity and truth of the revelations of Mohammed." This was not to be. Christianity achieved success over the Prophet of Islam—the Cross remained above the Crescent, and Charles Martel, better known as Charlemagne, in gaining that victory, won for himself imperishable fame.

Need it be said that the enfranchising influence of Christianity, made political liberty a corollary to religious freedom. How clear we can now see those influences on nations; they are regarded as elemental both in war and peace; they stamp the individuality of men, whether in the ranks of the soldier or the citizen. Christianity has done this for mankind, and this has made representative government the outcropping from the Divine truths of this dispensation.

From this epoch in history we follow the changes of nationalities across the Channel to "Merrie" England, to the battle of Hastings, fought by William the Conqueror against Harold, the last of the Saxon kings. The success of William changed everything in England, from the tenure of the land to the classes in society. The Saxons were reduced to serfdom and never represented in the governing class for a century after the conquest, until Henry II. made Thomas A' Becket Archbishop of Canterbury. The popular term of Anglo Saxon, in my judgment, is a misnomer. The descendants of that age might be with greater propriety termed Anglo Normans. Paradoxical as it may seem, we can agree with Guizot, the French historian, "that England's liberties are owing to her being conquered by the Normans."

Upon the world's highway the next great contest is had, between the Spanish armada of Philip and the English fleet of Elizabeth. Hallam, in his Constitutional history, beautifully says; "In that memorable year, when the dark clouds gathered round our coast, when Europe stood by, in fearful suspense, to behold what should be the result of that great cast in the game of human politics; what the craft of Rome the power of Philip, the genius of Farnese could achieve, against the Island Queen, with her Drakes and Cecils?" This was a tilt between Protestant faith and English policy, and Catholicy backed by Spanish power; England then, as always before and since, successful on the ocean. But let this proud queen of the sea beware. There are now in her march for supremacy, on her favorite element, floating monitors in this Western World to halt and hearken to.

Leaving the wide waste of waters, we pass to the battle of Blenheim, which broke the power of Louis XIV. in Germany. His schemes of conquest were dissolved by the bright genius of the Duke of Marlborough, who never fought a battle he did not win, or besieged a place he did dot take. On this sanguinary field he crushed the aggressive policy of France, and by a single blow almost annihilated their grand army.

Let us now leave the monarchs of the old world struggling for ascendency and as "westward the course of empire takes it way," sweep across the broad Atlantic and locate ourselves in the month of October, 1777, at Saratoga, where Gates and Burgoyne confronted each other; where, figuratively speaking, Greek was about to meet Greek; where men who were the colsolidation of the fighting stock of Europe were about to do battle; men in whose veins the blood of the Celt, the Norman and the Saxon, was commingled; forming a grand aggregate of genius and personal daring, which seemed to stamp them as the governors of the world. One was fighting for the dominion of a king; our Revolutionary fathers for liberty; and we are taught that

"Freedom's battle once begun,
Bequeathed from bleeding sire to son,
Though baffled oft, is ever won."

You are familiar with the result—the capitulation of the entire English army, which led to the recognition by France, Spain and Holland, of the 'Independent United States of America' as a power among the nations.

To speculate on this victory would be the province of the historian, but we cannot pass it over without a reflection which necessarily belongs to the time, the place and the contest. Civilization had taught mankind many lessons from Marathon till then. It had fixed the state of man's relation to the State; it had taught other sciences than war; it had given to other powers than force of arms influences and consequences; it had raised political rights to the equality of the victor's glories; it had tried the experiment on the American continent of the government of the people against the government of the crown. Here it was, comrades, at Saratoga, the decisive battle was fought which made this system of government a living fact, a beacon to light all mankind. No greater surrender than that of Burgoyne was ever made. It was the surrender of Monarchy to Representative Government. From this surrender the flag of the Stars and Stripes was stamped as the symbol of a nation. This flag has grown to be the representative of great truths—a written constitution; equal political rights; representation and taxation to be coequal and coincident; the right to bear arms; the right to vote. These rights involve a sacred duty—to maintain the honor of that flag and the nationality of which it is the symbol and the sign.

We recross to the continent of Furope, to find republican France crossing swords against banded monarchs on the field of Valmy. Alison writes, "From the field of Valmy may be dated the course of victory which carried the French arms to Vienna and the Kremlin." The French, commanded by the elder Kellerman, won a great victory, and the battle monument on this field, shows the spot where rests the heart of this grand old soldier, whose dying request was that it should b buried among the remains of his old companions in arms. Goethe the scholar and poet of Germany, who was present at this engagement, in speaking of it to some Prussian officers, said: "From this place, and from this day forth, commences a new era in the world's history, and you can all say you were present at its birth."

The Republic of France, from the characteristics of the people, passed, by natural transition, into the Empire. It was the love of glory, the sounds of victory, the excitement of arms, the ever so tempting hope of conquest, for conquest's sake, which took them to Moscow. They lusted for battle, but cared not who led, Emperor, King or Convention. On the 18th of June, 1815, a portion of those monarchs who rule by the grace of God and the custom of nations, confronted, on the field of Waterloo, the "Little Corporal," whose power was the result of his own genius, who ruled as absolute monarch in the hearts of his heroic veterans, upon whose bayonets he founded, and by which he battled to maintain his dynasty. The legitimacy of monarchy said, this Corsican must be crushed; he interferes with the balance of power; the Bourbons must be replaced upon the throne of France. Victor Hugo, that versatile French writer, declares that Waterloo was not only a great battle, but, to use a quasi military phrase, it was a change of front of the universe. It was a chapter of accidents against the skill and power of Napoleon. The rain in the morning, delaying the attack; the failure of Grouchy to follow up the Prussians; the fortunate arrival of Blucher; the French cavalry swallowed up in the sunken road of Ohain; the charge of the "Old Guard;" the counter charge of Wellington's guards; the Celt and the Gaul closed in the death struggle; the reply of Cambronne when asked to surrender—"The Guard dies, but never surrenders!"—these are incidents amid such scenes that fix the stamina an t power of a nation. These battles of the world which I have referred to, whilst they show the condition of the mere science of arms at their several epochs, and also the power of nations, yet, they prove that mere physical power had but little to do with the greatness of the State. It is to be observed, that the men who fought in all these armies were trained, either by custom, by law, by the rude condition of social organization, by the necessities of class, by other or like physical causes, to deeds of arms, and yet they little understood why they fought. They were people, in every sense except that sense in which we use the term—elements of political organization. They had but little, if any part in the conduct of public affairs; they were not educated and trained to govern in peace. Even the Greek and Roman Republics failed to express the elemental power of the people during times of peace. Both looked to organized power in armies and what it could accomplish. Civilization and Christianity have added that one thing needful to make a nation of men the sovereigns in a free representative government. Time will not permit me to make those philosophic deductions which properly belong to the relations and effects of these battles to nations and on peoples. I have referred to them now only to show that there are pivotal points in the history of every country, on which turns its destiny.

In our own late contest for political unity, history, judging by republics that had gone before, prepared to write self-government a failure on the American continent, and upon the tombstone of this nation, as she has on all others of like form, with scarce an exception, place the substance of this: "In memoriam—A. D., 1861, United States of America, fallen, like all republics that have gone before, upon their own sword, leaving the closing page of their history blackened by the horrors of a suicide's death." The citizen soldiery of the nation said nay to this. How well they maintained it, the bloody contests of this war of insurrection will show. We will take those of the noble army of the Potomac, which faced, in its zone of operations, the elite of the power and chivalry of the confederacy. Prominent in this Potomac army, standing out in bold relief as the flower of this State, the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps, formed by the suggestive wisdom of the then Executive of the Commonwealth, apparently sprang, like Minerva, from the brain of Jove, full armed, and entered upon its career of blood-bought victory, and that, too, when the nation, panic stricken, was staggering under the fearful blows delivered against her at the first Bull Run. Shall I, comrades, attempt, in your presence, to place an additional laurel on the brow of a M'Call, a Meade or an Ord, or drop a tear to the memory of the lamented Reynolds? No! comrades; this would be a work of supererogation. Those names are enshrined in the hearts of their surviving comrades; men who formed a division that sealed its valor by leaving three-fourths of its number upon the various fields of strife, made red by bloody victory; a division that has earned a fame as historic as the Greek Phalanx of Alexander, the Tenth Legion of Cæsar, the Irish Guard of Wellington, or the Old Guard of Napoleon.

Would you know where this fame was won? Go back with me on the sultry afternoon of the 26th of June, 1862, to the banks of Beaver Dam creek at Mechanicsville. Mark this division, formed upon the extreme right flank of the army of the Potomac; see the solid columns of Confederates advancing to turn this point; hearken to the thunders of artillery—the sharp rattle of the musketry—the Confederate yell—the sturdy cheer of the Reserves in reply! Still on the column comes! See the charge, the repulse. Again they come, and again, but all to no purpose. That line stands firm as adamant until night ends the strife. But night brings no rest—"Fall in," steadily, for Gaines' Mill. Why? Because Jackson, that wily beau ideal of the Southern soldier, is at Cold Harbor, on our flank. He has beaten in detail, and slipped away from, our tardy commanders in the Shenandoah Valley; the 27th sees us again engaged, and our gallant Reynolds captured. The 30th, prodigal with the slaughter of our comrades in that bloody struggle at Charles City Cross Roads—the gallant M'Call captured—the stern, steady Meade wounded—the noble Seneca Simmons killed, and only cool, brave Seymour left us. March on to Malvern Hill, July 2d, where the military genius of our George B. M'Clellan blazed with the splendor of a Napoleon; the hearts he formed and led showed themselves worthy of his training, when after a retrograde movement of six days they turned on their pursuers and hurled back with indescribable slaughter, the masses who considered the army of the Potomac a thing of the past. Those seven days, comrades, have become historic—marching by night and fighting by day, listening each morning to hear the guns of M'Dowell on Jackson's left flank as eagerly as Jennie Brown, the Highland lass in Lucknow, listened for the slogan of the Campbells. But, alas! not with the same result. Animated solely by fear of personal danger, the result of military ignorance, the fiat of the modern Aulic Council, halting McDowell in his march to join us, we were left to struggle alone. Manfully it was done. You are entitled to the greenest laurels, won by the sacrifice in these sanguinary contests of one-fifth of your beloved comrades.

Transport yourselves with me from Harrison's Landing to the plains of Manassas: Again you occupy the post of honor. Lee's object was to turn Pope's left flank. There you stood, with your Brigade front and Division in mass, Reynolds at your head; there you won additional honors by stemming awhile the torrent of confederate victory which drove, from sheer lack of generalship, the devoted soldiers of the Potomac army into the fortifications of the Capital. "Fall in!" "forward!" is the order of your old commander. At the sound of that voice the shattered column is reformed as if by magic; you climb the rugged sides of South Mountain, and drive the foe before you; pass down its western slope and debouch in the valley to meet again the veterans of Lee, posted in the acute angle formed by the junction of the Potomac river and Antietam Creek.

Under M'Clellan's plan of battle the Confederate left was the point to be assailed. Who were selected as the assailants of this post alike of honor and of danger? History records that "the assault was made by the centre division of Hooker's corps, the Pennsylvania Reserves, under command of Gen. Geo. G. Meade, with wonderful impetuosity, which forced back the Confederate lines over the Hagerstown road and into the woods around the Dunker Church." Victory here perched upon your banners. The series of di-asters which had swept, from sheer lack of generalship, the Union arms from the Rapidan into the lines of Washington, were at an end. The veteran and hitherto invincible legions of Lee, were compelled to seek refuge behind the waters of the Potomac; and here, as heretofore, the brightest page of the history of this contest is your own.

"Fall in!" "Forward!" is the order, and on a bleak December day you pass the Rappahannock and meet your foes perched upon the heights of Fredericksburg. Are you selected for any special or perilous duty here? Yes, the commander-in-chief has directed Franklin to charge with a division on his front, and he ordered the Pennsylvania Reserves forward. That stern old warrior, Meade, marshalled forward the debris of that veteran band he had so often led into the very jaws of death! Then came the rapid advance, (starting beyond our lines like a gladiator of old, to grapple with the power of an adversary), then the sharp volley, the fixed bayonet, the cheer, the charge, the rush, the first line of the enemy carried, their second wavering, our flanks enveloped, our line enfiladed, overwhelmed with numbers, the ordered support not advancing to our assistance. O! how we wished for the presence of those noble souls, our fallen comrades, whose bones lay bleaching on every field of carnage from the outset, by which our numbers were reduced from 15,000 to 4,000; then would we have stood in our power and pride, numerically strong enough to win our way without support. Alas! this could not be, and we emerged from that useless charge a fragment of our former selves; the gallant General Jackson, of the Second brigade, no more, and forty per cent of our entire number placed hors du combat!

The magnanimity of your commanders gave you an opportunity to recuperate and fill up your shattered and decimated ranks. You are removed from the front; the foot of the invader is upon the soil of your native State; you ask to have an opportunity to meet him. It is granted. You rejoin your old commanders of the army of the Potomac, who receive you with open arms. Your toilsome marches bring you to the spot where, under the command of the brave Crawford, you reach the acme of your greatness upon the Little Round Top, at Gettysburg. Shall I describe this fearful contest, which future historians will declare to be the one which decided the supremacy of the Union and the downfall of the Confederacy? Before proceeding to do so, let us pay a willing tribute to the memory of one whom you all delight to honor, and whose image you cherish in your hearts with a feeling strong as the first love of budding womanhood—he whose discipline in the camp and bravery in the field made his imprint on the officers and soldiers of this Division. We imagine we still see him

"Through the smoke created night
Of the black and sulphurous fight,
There, where death's brief pang was quickest
And the battle's wreck lay thickest.

Whilst the broken line enlarging
Fell, or fled along the plain,
There, be sure, was Reynolds charging!
There he ne'er shall charge again!"

Well might Meade exclaim at Gettysburg, on the death of this patriot, as Napoleon did at Marengo, on the death of his great Lieutenant—Dessaix—that "Victory at such a price is dear!" How clear the memory, how vivid the recollections of this decisive battle. Let us state the positions of the contending forces as planned. General Lee says "it was determined to make the principal attack upon the enemy's left, and endeavor to gain a position from which our artillery could be brought to bear with effect. The point to be carried was the little Round Top." This, the Confederate commander directed General Longstreet to do. Opposed to him was the Third Corps, and to this menaced point—the key of the whole po ition—was moved (with other troops) the Pennsylvania Reserve Corps. On came the masses of Longstreet, without even being preceeded by a skirmisher. The Third Corps, after a manful resistance, is forced back; the first Division of the Fifth Corps meets the same fate, and then the steady valor of the Regulars is opposed to this on-coming tide. They are outflanked—compelled to change front and fight their way back. Yet on comes the column of Texans, headed by Hood, shattered, but steady. They essay to carry the slope of the little Round Top. You had the proud privilege of meeting them midway You had the honor of repulsing them. You threw them back as the rock hurls the ocean wave in fragments from its front. On the day succeeding, your determined courage broke their line and added fresh laurels to your brow. But why particularize? Your action won the admiration of your comrades, the commendation of your officers, and tended to free the soil of your State from the foot of the invader. This engagement requires more than a passing notice. It was the spot where the aggregate powers of the Confederacy had set their fortunes on a single cast, resolved to stand the hazard of the die. The stake was what? Not independence, but that which would have tended very much towards it. The recognition of the Confederacy by foreign powers as a de facto government. And if the Southern diplomats at the European courts will tell the truth, this invasion was planned by them, with the guarantee that if successful their European sympathizers would hail them as a legitimate power among nations. What gave Franklin and his colleagues, under direction of our first revolution, recognition at the court of Louis? Was it not our prestige won at Saratoga? A similar result at Gettysburg for the Confederates, in my judgment, would have tended to the same end, dignified treason, and changed the term insurrection into successful revolution. Let us yet advance. With the measure of your glory filled to overflowing, you are culling fresh laurels from the thorns of danger strewed in your path, from the Rappahannock to the James. The Wilderness, Spottsylvania, the North Anna and Bethsada Church shine in lustre on your banners! Five Forks is fought; the strife is ended, and those massive columns of soldiery, organized with a speed that astonished the world and made monarchs quake in their palaces, moved noiselessly from these warlike scenes of operations to their quiet hou e; not as Othello, "with their occupation gone," but Cincinnatus like, returning to their daily avocations, having served and saved their country. In a moment like this, when passions are lulled and reason holds supreme sway, after traversing this sea of blood, it is of all importance to critically state results, especially as they apply to the government of republics. Greece, as we have seen, although all powerful to defend herself, as at Marathon, against foreign invasion, finally wasted her substance in civil wars with her confederate States, and fell an easy prey into the lap of monarchy. Rome, "she who was named eternal and arrayed her warriors but to conquer," became the victim of one of her own sons. Cæsar passed the Rubicon, civil war was inaugurated, and Rome was free no more! Venice, the republican bulwark of Europe against Ottoman invasion, exists only in history. In Holland the name of Commonwealth is gone, and she bows to the sceptred sway of a king. The short lived republicanism of France is driven out of the Senate chambers; and crushed in the nation by the bayonets of Napoleon's grenadiers. I have read, somewhere, the no less beautiful than truthful expression, "that the republics of old appear like an unhappy maniac, who, in a paroxysm of madness, crushed at his feet a magnificent vase, gorgeous in hue and priceless in value, is seen, in the first interval of returning reason, endeavoring to gather up and re-unite the glittering fragments, but struggling, alas! in vain."

Let us accept results from the pages of history. Let us be taught experience from others' errors. Let us bind up the wounds of the Republic. Let us like all brave men, have magnanimity in our hearts for a fallen foe. Let us be animated by the spirit that made Burke the great Irish statesman in the English House of Commons, pending the revolution of '76, utter the sentiments "that he gloried in the bravery of the colonies," our revolutionary forefathers; and when called to order for such disloyal utterances, replied that "had they not fought manfully for what they believed to be right, they would be unworthy scions of the stock from which they sprang." Our Southern breathren and ourselves sprang from the loins of one common mother, and we, at least, comrades, know that he who conquers them will find a stubborn foe. We must not, as in the days of Rome, make them pass under the yoke. We must remember that, as an element of weakness among the ruling powers of the world, in this epoch, England has her Ireland, Austria her Hungary, Russia her Poland, and the United States can afford to have no such germ of discord in her Union. Whilst we are carrying out our history, whilst our hardy pioneers are still advancing westward, and with our right hand stretched into Behring Straits, ready to grapple the trade of Asia, and our left pointing to the key of the Gulf of Mexico, and asking Spain "how long before we shall hold it, comrades?" place upon the tablet of your memory this:

That when you see this land by faction tossed,
Her freemen slain, her laws, her freedom lost,
Let this reflection from the action flow,
We ne'er from foreign foe can ruin know.
Oh! let us, then, intestine discord shun,
We ne'er can be, but by ourselves, undone.

NEGRO RULE.

The first fruits of the Upas tree, Radicalism, ripened in Washington city on Monday, third inst. On that day the Negroes of that city, assisted by vagabond blacks from Virginia and Maryland, wrested the government of the capital of the Republic, from the control of the white men. There were just 8,500 negroes registered and this vote was almost entirely polled. The number of white voters registered, was 10,000. Of this vote but about 6,000 were polled. The whole Negro vote was cast for the ticket nominated by the Negro convention. But about 200 whites voted that ticket. Yet the majority for the Negro ticket is about 2,000. The few dirty whites who thought themselves low and mean enough to unite with the Negroes, assisted by the non-resident hangers-on and Radical clerks in the departments, managed to prevent the polling of the full white vote, and thus secured the defeat and disgrace of their own race. The Negroes took possession of the approaches to the polls at four o'clock in the morning, and held possession of them all day. They were marshalled by the blowing of tin horns, and literally encamped at the polling-places and upon the approaches to the same. Great frauds are said to have been committed, by the Radical Negro managers, an investigation of which, of course, will not be permitted. Such is the state of affairs produced by the course of the Radical Congress. Eight thousand vagrant Negroes, rule the white people of the National Capital. And who are responsible for this condition of affairs? The Radical Congress, say you? Aye, verily, but not as responsible as the people who elected that Congress! You men who vote the Radical ticket, you men here in Pennsylvania, you people who tell us that you are opposed to Negro Suffrage, and at the same time give yourselves the lie by voting the so-called "Republican" ticket, you are primarily responsible. How long are you willing to bear the responsibility?

WHITE SLAVERY.

There are twenty thousand white men in Pennsylvania, some of them scarred and maimed soldiers of the late war, who have been reduced to political slavery by the tricks of the party in power. These men have no voice in the government of the State and are, politically, just as much slaves as were the negroes of the South five years ago. There are about twenty-five thousand of this class in the State of Ohio, and the same proportion holds good in every Northern State. In the South, including Tennessee and Missouri, two thirds of the white citizens are in the same condition. It may, therefore, be safely reckoned that about 700,000 white citizens of the United States, are at present denied the rights of citizenship. These figures can easily be substantiated. Is this freedom? Is this a Republican government? Oh! ye sticklers for universal suffrage, ye shriekers for freedom, ye howlers for Negro enfranchisement, how this fact puts you to the blush! Oh! ye Radical hypocrites, ye canting, whining, whimpering demagogues, how this burning shame brands itself upon your foreheads! "Ye make the outside of the platter clean," but ye eat therefrom the filth of your own foulness! Out upon you, knaves and swindlers!

IMPEACHMENT PLAYED OUT.

Some time in March last, we wrote a letter from Washington city, which was published in the GAZETTE, in which we assured our readers that the Impeachment scheme would fail. Our prediction has been fully verified. The Judiciary Committee of the lower house of Congress, which had the matter in charge, has just made a report in which it is set forth that there is no cause for impeachment, but a majority of the committee pass a vote of censure upon the President. The mountain has labored and brought forth a miserable, ridiculous little mouse. Oh! insomnious Ashley! Oh! bottled-up Butler! Your occupation is gone!

EXIT "UNION PARTY."

Mr. J. B. Cessna, "Chairman," has issued a call for the election of delegates to a County Convention to meet in Bedford, on the fourth day of July next, "for the purpose of nominating a county ticket to be supported by the Republican voters of this county next fall." The word "Union," or "Union Party," does not occur at all in this call. The election of delegates is to be confined solely to the "Republican voters." The reason for this change is easily accounted for. Ten States and Ten Millions of People are excluded from the Union, by the course of the late Congress, and the political supporters of that body dare no longer call themselves the "Union Party." During the war, many Democrats were induced to vote against their party, because the opposition professed to be the "Union Party." Of course such Democrats will be consistent and leave the opposition since that party has dropped the name of "Union," and re-assumed that of "Republican" which is now synonymous with Disunion. Even the two Cessnas can hardly "stomach" the name and principles of the party whose enemies they were for so many years. We shall now see who among the Democrats that voted the so-called "Union Ticket," during the war, did so from pure motives, and who among them did so because they were "turn-coats" and wanted to go over to the enemy. For, the issue is now no longer between the Democrats and the "Union Party," but between the Democrats and the Radical, Disunion "Republicans."

It is customary for this despotism to select the merest block-heads that offer, so that good men are seldom successful. —Inquirer.

The above is said of Democratic County Conventions. We presume the writer of that paragraph must have had Greely's denunciation of such fellows as he, "narrow-minded block-heads," ringing in his ears, since he chose a part of the Greely phraseology. But isn't that a pretty compliment to some people. For instance, in 1861 and 1862, John Cessna was one of these same "block-heads," and in 1862, J. W. Lingenfelter, Esq., was chairman of County Committee, and under his management some of these block-heads were elected. Among the Democratic County Officers thus stigmatized, we notice O. E. Shannon, John Adstadt, John J. Cessna, Robert Steckman, Andrew Crisman, Michael Wertz, M. S. Ritchey, David Howsare, G. W. Gump, W. G. Eicholtz, James Burns, Adolphus Ake, Hiram Davis, Henry Moses, D. R. Anderson, Samuel Beckley, &c., &c. These gentlemen, will please take notice of the compliment paid them by the Inquirer.

AN honest confession is said to be good for the soul. If this be true, the souls (such as they are) of the editors of the Inquirer, must have been greatly benefited by the following confession printed in their last week's issue, in regard to their candidates:

"Half of the opposition voters in Bedford Borough are candidates for County Treasurer, while the other half would be if they thought there was any chance. A wag was overheard to say the other evening, within the hearing of half a score of the rivals, that he was determined to support the man who would give him the use of the greatest amount of the public funds, in case of election. He was button-holed, it is said, by half the number present, as soon as the coast was clear, and told they would "make it all right." It is apparent some body wants the use of the public funds."

That "somebody wants the use of the public funds," has been apparent to us for sometime. The Inquirer's party has made strenuous efforts, for the past ten years, to elect a County Treasurer, and it appears that the object was to obtain "the use of the public funds." Well! well!

"WILL THEY ANSWER?"

Some weeks ago we asked the editors of the Bedford Inquirer, whether they and their party are in favor of the establishment of Negro Suffrage in Pennsylvania. Our question remains unanswered. Since the Radical party have made the Negroes voters in the ten excluded States and in the District of Columbia, the question arises whether that party has one set of principles for the South and another for the North. We, therefore, repeat our question. Some of the Inquirer's party in this neighborhood, are anxious to hear from it on this subject.

SUPREME JUDGE.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, of Philadelphia, was nominated, on second ballot, for Judge of the Supreme Court, by the Democratic State Convention, which assembled in Harrisburg, on Tuesday last.

SOUTHERN RELIEF.—The Ladies' Southern Relief Association of New York city are out in an appeal on behalf of the newly-established Home for the Widows and Orphans of Mississippi, recently established at Lauderdale Springs, in that State. The home, they say, contains at this time from five hundred to six hundred, while hundreds more are begging in tears for admission. It is said also that "mothers sick and faint themselves from want and suffering plead, upon their knees, that their loved children may be saved from starvation"

The Negro Triumph in Washington.

The scenes and incidents connected with the triumph of the negroes over the white population of Washington City furnishes food for serious reflection. We give a few. The New York Herald correspondent says:

The ceremonies of the day appear to have been commenced by the colored freemen as early as two o'clock this morning, when delegations of them sallied forth with tin horns and other barbarous instruments to arouse the more slothful to the important work of the day. Long before the polls were opened a long line of sable voters, three and four deep, were in waiting at most of the precincts. As a large proportion of the negroes were too ignorant to answer the questions propounded in such a way as to coincide with their record on the registration lists, much valuable time was consumed in taking their votes, and the consequence was that large numbers of the whites who were not in the habit of voting "early and often" were prevented from casting their votes. As a case in point, at ten o'clock this morning, at the First precinct, First ward, the list stood two hundred and twenty-five colored and one white, and Second precinct two hundred and twenty-seven colored and one white. From all accounts the colored vote was almost entirely polled, while a large portion of the white vote failed to get in.

The National Intelligencer, the old Whig organ, has a column full of incidents. We select the following items:

Throughout the entire day the negroes monopolized the polls, and excluded white men from the approaches. This excited a good deal of feeling; but the excitement was most intense about the First Precinct of the Seventh ward. There was a long line of colored men there, extending along F street, and around the corner down Four-and-a-half street to E. In all this dusky crowd our oldest inhabitants could scarcely recognize a familiar face. Indeed, this was the case at all the precincts. It was manifest that the whole contest was one between pauper negroes, dependent for subsistance upon the bones thrown them from the Freedmen's Bureau, and the old citizens and property-holders of Washington. In the Seventh Ward during the day a double line of white voters, corresponding to the line of colored voters on Four-and-a-half street, was formed on F street, meeting the other line at the window, with the idea of voting the whites and colored alternately, and quiet a number of whites were voted in this way; but complaint having been made to Major Richards, Superintendent of Police, he decided that the separate white line could not be permitted to vote in this way, as being unfair to the voters in the original line, who had stood waiting all day. This decision created considerable feeling amongst the whites, and it was proposed to open polls at five P. M., to take in a separate white vote.

Considerable additional excitement was created by a controversy between Major Richards and Mr. Thomas E. Loyd in relation to the above decision. Mr. Loyd stated that the double line had been formed with the consent of the recievers of votes, and he denied Mr. Richards' right to thus break up a line of voters, especially as it was composed of some of the oldest citizens of the ward. By this decision the whites were excluded from voting; and men who for ten, twenty, thirty, and forty years have exercised the elective franchise here—men who have property interests at stake—were virtually excluded from a voice in muncipal affairs by a horde of strange negroes who have no more interest in Washington affairs than the King of Dahomey, and know as little as that monarch of its true wants.

In all the precincts of the Fourth Ward the colored people opened the ball with a good showing, but they polled most of their strength in the morning. This was the strong Conservative ward of the city. The number of colored men that appeared to vote at an early hour was surprising. The receivers at some of the precincts were very slow. Especially was this the case at the Fourth Precinct. Here four of our oldest citizens were turned away and told that they were not registered. Mr. Asbury Lloyd subsequently appeared and offered to vote, and was told he was not registered. He demanded to see the books, and found his own name and that of the three others who had been rejected duly recorded. At the Third Precinct double lines of white and colored voters were formed and the ballots were received alternately.

In the Seventh ward the colored people were out early. This was the great negro stronghold, and it seemed to be a preconcerted movement that the polls should be taken possession of by them and held during the day. They therefore paraded the streets at 2 o'clock in the morning, and waked sleepers and made the air resound with notes from tin horns, calling out the faithful. At 4 o'clock some seven or eight hundred colored voters were in line at the First Precinct, and up to half past 10 A. M. the number had increased to about one thousand. At that time not one white man was in line at that precinct, and only about twenty-five white votes had been received. By an arrangement entered into early in the morning the committee of ten, vote distributers, &c., of each party were permitted to vote without waiting to fall into line. The polling proceeded very slowly at this precinct from various causes, not averaging more than one to every five minutes.

One of the receivers, J. B. Pierce, insisted upon examining the books for the names, and it took him just five minutes to spell out the name after he had found it. Although there were so many persons in line, not more than 100 votes were polled at 12 o'clock.

It was observed that but few colored men were at work yesterday. All were in attendance upon the polls.

In some of the wards the colored people strained every nerve to prevent the white people voting. One of their schemes was to swell the line with men who had already voted, in order to keep out the whites. Thus, a negro would vote, and would then pass around to the rear of the line. He would remain there until some one came along who had not voted, when he would drop out of line and give the newcomer his place. This was practised to such an extent in one of the First Ward precincts that direct appeals to prevent it had to be made to the police officers.

The judges of election were in session in the Post Office building yesterday, for the purpose, as was stated, of correcting errors in the registration.—They gave certificates stating that certain individuals had been registered, and a large number of persons voted upon those certificates.

During last evening squads of colored men paraded the streets, shouting and hurrahing on account of their success. Bonfires were lighted in various sections of the city, and it was a night of general jubilation for the negro party.

THE COMING TIDE.

While in the South, before the spring elections, publicly and privately we told the people that there was a great change going on in the North, and that Democracy was gaining strength as never before. At times we would be doubted—at times contradicted—at times met by Radicals who almost gave us the lie, and who sneered at our assertion, made before election. We made wagers on Connecticut and won them.

We advised, earnestly advised people there not to embrace Radicalism, for to embrace the monster is to hug the saw which tears the flesh to the bone, and in many localities we believe our word gave hope, and roused the drooping spirits of the people.

We based our prophecy on, to us, certain indications—letters from the people. Since the last fall elections thousands and thousands of letters from the people have come to us in our sanctum, from every State and every congressional district in the North.—These letters can be seen in our office by the piles. They are earnest letters, telling us in unmistakable words that the people are waking from their slumber, and they have decided to be free.

The Grand Revolutionis going on hourly!

Taxation and intolerance are doing their work. With encouragement to lead and bigotry and aristocracy to drive, the American people are becoming restless under their chains, and the tide of reason is coming in.

We told the people of the South that the Democracy was not dead in the North. We now point with honest pride to the most wonderful increase of Democratic votes in proof that we were in earnest and had some idea of the sentiment of the people. We knew all the thousands of earnest letters which came to us meant something, and that the renewal of pluck would bring Democratic majorities.

The Radicals swore they could and would carry Connecticut, as they have for thirteen years. They failed, although over $200,000 in cash was used by them there.

Then they laughed a sickly laugh and said they could afford to lose that little State.

But the returns keep coming in, and all over the North the new spring styles are "Democratic gains." New Hampshire will go Democratic next. Maine will follow suit. New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, New Jersey and Minnesota will go Democratic at their next election if we have any decent organization and effort, and we will have. Then Illinios and Iowa will follow suit, and the grand tide will come rushing, and the people will rejoice as never before.

The gains are not confined to Connecticut. The city of Albany, New York, last fall, gave over one hundred Radical majority. This spring it went seventeen hundred Democratic

Here is a gain equal to that of Connecticut. We have letter after letter from city and town in the Northern States, telling us of new styles -viz. Democratic victories and the glorious work is but commencing.

The Radicals here do not talk so loud or so fast as they did. The working men are talking hard of them. The bond holders are not popular as once. The clank of chains and the glimmer of bayonets have no terrors for the people now, and the tide is coming in.

Press on the column! Organize for action! Stand in the line—advance the column and all will soon be well.—La Crosse Democrat.

DEATH OF REV. DR. KRAUTH.—We perform a melancholy duty in recording the death of our venerable and esteemed fellow citizen, Rev. Dr. Chas. P. Krauth, Sr., which occurred at his residence, on Baltimore street, at 6 o'clock on Thursday evening last. Though bodily feeble for several years, his mental vigor ceased only with a calm and peaceful termination of life. His remains were interred in Ever Green Cemetery, on Saturday afternoon, after appropriate and impressive services in Christ Church, including addresses by Rev. Dr. Morris, of Baltimore, and Rev. Drs. Hay and Baugher, of this place. The funeral was attended, in addition to the relatives and a large concourse of citizens, by the Faculties and Students of the College and Seminary.—The stores and other places of business were closed during the moving of the funeral cortege.

Dr. Krauth was born in Montgomery county, Pa., and commenced his ministry in Virginia, after which he was transferred to Philadelphia, as Pastor of St. Matthew's Church; in 1833 he was elected Professor in the College and Seminary here, and soon after became President of the former, which post he occupied seventeen years; resigning the Presidency a few years ago, he gave his whole time to his duties in the Seminary, continuing up to his death. In addition to his professorial engagements, he was Pastor of the College Church five years. His age was a little upwards of 70 years.

Thus has passed away one who long held a prominent place in the church and the community. Highly cultivated, with great purity of character and goodness of heart, Dr. Krauth was esteemed by all, and sinks into the grave regretted by all. Peace to his ashes.—Gettysburg Compiler.

DEADLY AFFRAY.—On Saturday night last about 10 o'clock, a deadly affray occurred in Wolfstown, between two colored men named David Montgomery and Wm. Stoner. It appears that the parties had a fight during the day, in which the latter named darkey came off second best, where upon he swore vengeance. About 10 o'clock P. M. he proceeded to Wolfstown, and, finding Montgomery in a shop kept by a colored man named Jones, drew a revolver and fired several shots at him, both of which took effect and are likely to prove fatal. Stoner was accompanied by several friends, at the time of the shooting, one of whom, named George Blue, has been arrested and is now in jail. Stoner is still at large.—Valley Spirit.

—A Wilmington, N. C., paper learns that Mr. Bankhead has been brought to that city in irons, from South Carolina, having been tried by a military commission in that State for participation in some disturbance. His sentence was not read to him until his arrival there, when it was divulged that he was to be confined in Fort Macon at hard labor for seven years.

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the city, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruby complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly told them that she used the CIRCASSIAN BALM, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any Lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from, also healing, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. CONSUMPTION CURABLE BY DR SCHENCK'S MEDICINES.—To cure consumption, the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the liver and stomach must first be cleansed and an appetite created for good wholesome food, which, by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution. Schenck's Mandrake Pills cleanse the stomach of all bilious or mucous accumulations; and, by using the Sea Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is nutritious as well as medicinal, and, by using the three remedies, all impurities are expelled from the system, and good, wholesome blood made, which will repel all disease. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action.—Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhœa they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic Syrup to act on the respiratory organs properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the rooms as much as possible, eat all the richest food—fat meat, game, and, in fact, anything the appetite craves; but be particular and masticate well. 2d w

DARING ROBBERY.—On Thursday night, 6th inst., the public house of Mr. Joseph Cessna, at the "Foot of the Ridge," several miles west of this place, was entered and several hundred dollars in money taken therefrom. About twenty dollars were taken from the money drawer of Mr Cessna's bar, and the remainder from the clothes of persons lodging at Mr. Cessna's house. The robbers appear to have gone about their work quite deliberately. They entered Mr. Cessna's spring-house, regaled themselves with the edibles kept there, and pinned a Confederate note to the wall of the house, with a fork (or knife, we have forgotten which) used in despatching their meal. No clue as to who they were has yet been discovered.

LATE PLANTING.—Our farmers have been considerably delayed in getting their corn planted. Many of them had been unable to prepare their ground on account of continued rains, and they had scarcely twenty-four fair working ing hours during the entire month of May. The close of last week witnessed a general conscription of field hands for dropping and covering throughout the county, and the grains are germinating in the ground. The adage of better late than never, has full force this season in regard to putting in corn.

THE new liquor law in Pennsylvania makes it the duty of policemen to arrest every person who is found in a state of intoxication in the streets or public houses, and orders that the individual shall be taken before a magistrate and submit to an examination there as to where he got the liquor, which is to be followed by a strict prosecution of the person who sold it to the inebriate.

"TAX PAYER."—As the party subscribing himself "Tax Payer," in last week's Inquirer, has not given us his name, we don't know whether he is one of the "tax-payers" whose name stands on several of the old duplicates, with taxes unpaid, or whether he is one of the very few who pay their taxes when they ought to, and thus relieve the people of the burthens continually imposed upon them by the drones and store-box loafers of the town, who with hands in pocket, or whittling a stick, offer their charitable criticisms upon the actions of others. As he omitted to give, in his list of expenditures, the $700 or $800 that were thrown away a few years since on the street running past Shuck's shop and Mrs. Brown's residence, but which was done under a different administration, we conclude that he might have had a hand in that wise expenditure, or is influenced now by partizan motives. How easy it is to talk instead of to do things. A scribbler, however, if he does want to scribble, ought to acquaint himself with facts, before he undertakes to write about things he don't know anything about. That the gutters he speaks of are filled with small stones, to be washed away with the first rain, &c., is not true. The bottom of every gutter is well paved with large stones, and the smaller ones thrown on to fill up the crevices. A heavy rain, filling every gutter, has fallen since some of these were fixed, and at points where they were well tried, and they answered the purpose exactly—not even a little stone was washed away, and not a lot flooded where it had been flooded before.

The Reservoir is not our making, and we are not, therefore, responsible; but like the gutters and everything else, before our wiseacres opinionate too much, they had better try it. We expect to make it answer a very good purpose. If it don't, then it is time enough to condemn it. If "tax-payer" and his neighbors will just pay, the work will soon be done, and if he and they don't we have an improvement for him and them to make—the only one we can think of that suits them, and that is to fence in the town and if they have energy enough left, then whitewash it and let it stand.

O. E. SHANNON,
Burgess.

THE BEST.—We have seen WARREN'S PATENT ELECTRIC CHURN, patented April 16, 1867, by J. A. Warren, Gettysburg, Adams County, Pa. This churn is the greatest success of the age. Mr. Warren, we are told, has been working at this for some years, and after years of labor, his work has been crowned with success. We doubt not that it defies the world. We have often cautioned our readers to beware of patent churn men, so we do yet—beware of those New England scamps who make their living by cheating the people—but we say to one and all buy Warren's churn. It embodies all the excellencies of the old dasher or box churn with a great saving of from one half to one hour's time. It will positively churn butter in from one to five minutes. R. W. Berkstresser & Co. have the sole right for this county, and will give the churn a fair trial at every farm house in the county.

"THE QUEEN OF THE MONTHLIES."—A LADY friend styles Demorest's Illustrated Magazine as the Queen of the Monthlies, and it is not unworthy of the title. The July number, which has come early to hand, is as gorgeous as the month is represents. It is brimming full of good stories, fine illustrations, household hints, and gay, seasonable fashions. Notwithstanding that this publication is issued from an "Emporium of Fashions," the editors do not disdain a glance at folly as she flies, and some of the best hits at prevailing frivolities which we have ever seen were found in the pages of "Demorest." To ladies living far from metropolitan centres, it is especially valuable and useful, and we are not surprised that so many confess it "indispensable." The subscription price is $3 per year, with a handsome premium. Addrsss, W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 473 Broadway, New York.

SALARIES OF JUDGES.—By the appropriation bill passed at the last session of our Legislature, the salary of the President Judge of this district was fixed at $3,500 for the present year. The salaries of Associate Judges of this Commonwealth were fixed at the sum of five dollars per day for every day, not exceeding fifty they may be employed in discharge of their official duties and for every day in excess of fifty the sum of three dollars is allowed; provided the salary of no associate Judge shall be less than three hundred dollars.

DEATH OF MRS. BAKER.—We learn from the Fulton Republican that Mrs. Harriet Baker, wife of Mr. Samuel Baker, died several weeks since at her home, in Ohio, from the effects of injuries recieved by the running away of a horse last fall in the vicinity of McConnellsburg, which at that time resulted in the death of Miss Laura Hassler, of this place.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND
J. W. BRADLEY'S
CELEBRATED PATENT
DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE SPRING) SKIRT.
The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in crowded Assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring Skirt.
A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.
They will not bend or break like the single spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered: preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.
The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World!
To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz. superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, inquire for
J. W. BRADLEY'S DUPLEX ELLIPTIC, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.
Caution—To guard against imposition, be particular to notice that Skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—☞none others are genuine. Also notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.
For sale in all stores where first class Skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent,

ASTROLOGY.
The World Astonished
AT THE WONDERFUL REVELATIONS MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST, MADAME H. A. PERRIGO.
She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catasrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives your name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.

REPARATOR CAPILLI.
Throw away your false frizzes, your switches, your wig—
Destructive of comfort, and not worth a fig;
Come aged, come youthful, come ugly and fair,
And rejoice in your own luxuriant hair.
REPARATOR CAPILLI
For restoring hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard. Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult, as nine-tenths of the different preparations advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. To such we would say, try the Reparator Capilli; it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes up to our representations. If your druggist does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, postpaid, together with a receipt for the money, which will be returned you on application, provided entire satisfaction is not given. Publications.

1867.—"THE WORLD."—1867.
The attention of the public is invited to the claims of "The World" as one of the leading public journals of the country. It is the chief organ of the Democratic Party of the United States, and the foremost advocate of the immediate restoration of the Union. Its highest merits consists in its character as an enterprising and trustworthy newspaper.
The next year bids fair to be a more critical one in the history of our free institutions than even any eventful ones that have preceded it. The first requsite for an intelligent judgment of public affairs is a full and authentic account of facts as they transpire. These The World always aims to give with conscientious accuracy, and with equal fullness and fidelity, whether they make for or against its own views of public policy. Prompt activity in spreading before its readers every kind of news in which any part of the public takes an interst, is the first duty of a newspaper, and the facilities of The World for discharging this obligation are unsurpassed by those of any journal in the United States. Whatever else it may fail in, it certainly will not fail to furnish the news, nor to supply it with such promptitude, spirit, freshness, abundance, variety, accuracy and candor, that no class of readers can miss anything of interest which they wish to find. The World will publish documents and arguments prepared by political foes just as freely as those prepared by political friends; making its own comments on them, of course, but never suppressing or garbling them because they are calculated to damage its own party. Adverse arguments, which it cannot refute, it is content to leave to make their full impression. The World adopts this rule because it believes no other is honest; because it conceives that its first duty to its readers is to keep them thoroughly informed on every passing subject of importance. In politics, The World will continue to be the bold advocate of a Liberal, Progressive Democracy. The unflinching champion of Freedom, Justice, Order and Constitutional Rights. The inspiration of its politics is Freedom restrained by Justice; or, to speak more strictly, Freedom pure and simple, in the largest collective measure; the office of justice being merely to protect freedom from encroachments; Freedom of the individual citizen in his rights of thought, speech, religion and locomotion; in his Right to choose his own food and drink, in spite of meddlesome temperance laws; in his Right to make any money bargains he thinks proper, in spite of foolish usury laws; in his Right to buy and sell in all markets, domestic and foreign, in spite of unjust protective tariffs; in his Right to representation in the legislative bodies which tax him, in spite of unconstitutional exclusions; Freedom of collective citizens to assemble for discussion of grievances; Freedom of all local communities to manage their local affairs without central interference; Freedom in every section of the country from the arrogant and unconstitutional domination of other sections; this large and comprehensive idea of Freedom sums up the politics of The World, which will never be found wanting to this capital interest of the country and of the human race.
In its accurate Commercial Intelligence and careful, reliable market reports, The World will continue to maintain its present high reputation. A paper published in the commercial metropolis is naturally looked to for authentic information relating to trade, commerce and finance; and this being a feature in which the The World prides itself, it boldly challenges comparison with every journal in the metropolis.
EDITIONS.
The Weekly World, a large quarto sheet, same size as Daily, is now printed throughout in large type, and has the largest circulation of any weekly journal published, save one. Its extraordinary success since its union with the New York Argus has justified the most liberal expenditures, which will make it unrivalled in interest and value to farmers. Published Wednesday.
1. Its Market Reports embrace the New York, Albany, Brighton and Cambridge Live Stock Markets; the New York Country Produce and General Produce Markets; special and valuable Hop Intelligence; a department of Agricultural Reading; all together composing an unrivalled handbook of current information for the Farmer, Live Stock or Produce Dealer, Country Merchant, &c.
2. A page or more reserved for entertaining Fireside Reading for the Family circle, embracing the freshest and best Stories, Poetry, Religious Reading, etc., and a page for the Discussion of all Prominent Topics of general interest, political agricultural, financial, literary, etc.
3. Its Digest of the News is not, like most weeklies, a mere waste-basket of the Daily; only matters of interest and importance are chosen from the Daily, while the mass of its contents are prepared especially for the Weekly.
In every postoffice district there should be found some active, public spirited Democrat, who will confer a benefit upon us, his neighbors, and the cause, by counseling with his Democratic friends and making a determined effort to form as large a club as possible for the Weekly World.
The Semi-Weekly World is a large quarto sheet, same size as Daily, which, by omitting a great mass of city advertisements from the Daily, contains all its news, correspondence, editorials, commercial and market news, cattle market and provision reports, and a fresh and entertaining miscellany of literature. Published Tuesday and Friday.
The Daily World affords a complete compendium of, and commentary upon, the news of every day.
